

A little while ago, Veidekke informed me that they won't renew my contract because they don't want to have a yoga studio in Finnes Villa anymore.

It came as a blow. After everything we have put up with, I was beginning to see a time where Terra could be an integral part of the community that is coming together in Lilleby. I was looking forward to what Terra could become in this new neighborhood, a wonderful addition to all the other great things happening, a perfect fit for this part of the city that is, after all, about green living, sustainability, and community.

I got upset and frustrated and discouraged. But at some point, I chose to not waste my energy on fighting something that is out of my control. I chose to believe that this is the beginning of an even better chapter for Terra, an opportunity for me to redefine and refine my vision for what Terra is and what it can become.

There is still some uncertainty about where and when we can open our doors again and what will happen in the meantime. I do promise you this isn't the end though. There will be a little break. But we will re-open, stronger and better than ever.

I want to thank Hege Annie Tryggestad, Solveig Sunniva Djønne Haugli, and Thomas Myran at Veidekke, who welcomed me in their project 3.5 years ago and who made it possible for me to launch Terra Yoga. Their vision and support in the early days of the project was very valuable and deeply appreciated.

I also want to thank all of you, dear Terra friends, who have come together to create our community. Your loyalty, dedication, and trust mean the world to me.

Terra wouldn't be what it is without all its amazing teachers, Jessica Walvåg, Kristine Iversen, Elinor Ingemann, Viktoria Havas, and Trine Husby. Thank you for being part of my dream and adventure. And of course, all the other teachers who have been sharing their knowledge and wisdom with us over the years.

Make sure to stay in touch, through terrayoga.no, facebook, and my newsletter. You'll get all the info you need there to continue practicing with us as soon as possible. Your current memberships will be extended until we are ready to open again. Feel free to reach out if you have any questions.

We still have many classes until the end of July! Join us for a few more special yoga moments together in our beautiful shala.

So, see you on the mat, dear Terra friends, and bye for now.